I am not surprised after all how many times here you followed a "Bad news details about the error" link from a windows error message only to get to a 404 or "Sorry, this is not the error you are looking for" MS web page?!

Investigate using intuitive tools and more I found that link is more than a forum, all referencing the tool. Curious, I went to see how many of my archived favourites are now ready for the trashcan and, alas, the good old microsoft redirect kb no longer work.

Microsoft has now released a free tool named Windows 7 USB/DVD Download Tool to help users easily create bootable Windows 7 DVD or USB using the downloaded the ISO file.

With much disappointment I found myself redirected to the Windows 8 home page as if nothing else counted.
